INDIRECT TAX SERVICES

Today's global and domestic businesses constantly face indirect tax issues arising in the field of value added tax (VAT), registration duties, insurance tax, excises and customs duties.

Indirect taxes need to be considered with attention in order to continuously manage risks as well as promptly seize upon and develop major opportunities.

European VAT in particular has become an unavoidable area of taxation over the years. Constantly evolving local as well as EU legislation, regulations and case-law require specialized tax knowledge together with practical expertise and experience.

The recent enlargement of the European Union brings additional challenges to this field for international businesses.

Inadequate focus may lead to additional operating costs, such as VAT leakage, negative cash-flow impacts, penalties, compliance failures, which may have a material impact on profitability.

Taking industry and business specifics into consideration, our specialized practice delivers customized solutions and implements tax planning in close co-operation with experts of other areas of taxation and legal advisers.

Our experience in serving local and international clients together with our knowledge of industries allow us to provide world-class indirect tax services to demanding professionals of the following sectors:
